

Meet
HEATHER SUROVIK
BRADY'S MOM

On July 5, 2012, I was eight months pregnant when a repeat drunk driver slammed into my car. Although my mother and I survived, my unborn son Brady did not. Because Colorado does not recognize Brady as a person, there was no prosecution for his tragic death. Brady was eight pounds, two ounces.

When I tried to change our state laws to protect babies like Brady in January, abortion advocates and their allies at the capitol testified that I had merely “lost a pregnancy” and shot down a bill that would have brought justice to babies killed during the commission of a crime. Immediately following those hearings, I filed “The Brady Amendment” which calls for fetal homicide laws to at last be applied to unborn victims of violence in Colorado.

Just weeks ago those same lawmakers passed H.B. 1154, dishonestly titled the “Crimes Against Pregnant Women” act. Planned Parenthood and supporters of H.B. 1154, who opposed my efforts to bring justice for Brady, have now passed a law that specifically reinforces that babies like Brady are not persons and eliminates criminal liabilities for abortionists who kill women during an abortion. Governor Hickenlooper signed this law, which says that drunk drivers like the one who is responsible for Brady’s death could have as little as a $2,000 fine. My son’s life was worth infinitely more than $2,000! I believe that this is one of the most offensive and deceptive bills to ever be passed in Colorado.

Getting involved is easy! You can request a petition by calling our office at (303) 456-2800 or by visiting <http://avoiceforbrady.com/get-a-petition/>. Please help me change this law through the Brady Amendment, which I am collecting signatures for right now. We’re running out of time, so we urgently need your help gathering signatures. We need 86,000 valid signatures to get the Brady Amendment on the next election ballot. Your involvement will make the difference.

Together, we can put the issue of protecting mothers and unborn children before the people and be a voice for Brady.
